Wreck injures four

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

A two vehicle accident at Lakeshore Road and U.S. 90 left four people hurt Sunday afternoon.

The accident happened at 4:54, according to Joe Gazzo with the Mississippi Highway Patrol, and four people sustained minor injuries.

The accident involved a 1992 Dodge, driven by Cassie M. Holmes, 40, 920 East Beach, Long Beach. Three passengers were in the vehicle, Gazzo said.

The other vehicle was a 1989 GMC van, driven by Robert J. Eby, 48, 23098 Freddy Frank Rd., Pass Christian.

"Holmes was traveling east on U.S. 90 and Eby was traveling north on Lakeshore Road.

Shot in eye paralyzes Bay Side Park man

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

A man is in a Gulfport hospital, paralyzed, after being shot in the eye Saturday night when he was looking to see who was outside his trailer.

Dennis Root, 38, Tate Street, Bay Side Park, heard a noise outside his camper and looked out the window to see what it was, Hancock County Investigator George Burleson said.

When he looked out the window of the camper, a person started shooting. One of the bullets came through the window of the camper, entered his right eye and is lodged in his temple, Burleson said.

Root is still in the intensive care unit of Memorial Hospital in Gulfport, Burleson said.

The incident occurred at approximately 11:30 p.m.

"The bullet appears to be .45 caliber. The investigation is continuing, Burleson said.

Supers split on Cuevas firing

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

It all started at the meeting over a school bus turnaround, and it escalated from there.

Hancock County Road Superintendent Sam Cuevas was almost fired last Thursday in an episode that stemmed from a list of proposed turnarounds and ended with a heated discussion concerning road gravel.

Cuevas presented the Hancock County Board of Supervisors with a list of proposed turnarounds he wished to have approved, with one exception, on Road 546, which he did not want approved.

"They have worked on part of the road, but not all of it. Because there is a 90 degree curve in it, we were told by the school district that it would be too dangerous," Cuevas said.

Cuevas told the board that he would recommend approval on a previous turnaround that had been on the road and that some work had been done to it.

District Two Supervisor Alton "Dolph" Kellar asked Cuevas if the county was going to maintain the road all the way to the home of Kendall Necaise, where the proposed new school bus turnaround would be.

Cuevas told Kellar that there would be no reason to maintain the road if it is not approved as a turnaround.

"They haven't built anything safe to put a school bus on," Cuevas said.

According to Cuevas, sandy clay had been put on the road.

In a previous board meeting it was discussed that the Necaise family had spent nearly $3,000 to improve the road so that it could be approved for a school bus turnaround.

"You told the people to spend the money and now the road is not being approved," Kellar told Cuevas.

Cuevas insisted that he did not tell the people to spend the money on the road improvements.

Kellar then asked Cuevas how much money he had in the

Hancock County receives aid for emergency relief

Jay Fleuriet, chairman of FEMA, announces Hancock County has been awarded federal funds under the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board program.

Hancock County has been chosen to receive $14,145 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the area.

The selection was made by a national board, chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and consists of representatives from The Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Council of Jewish Federations, Catholic Charities USA, National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA and United Way of America, which will provide the administrative staff and function as fiscal agent.

The board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

A local board, made up of St. Vincent de Paul, Community Action, Food Pantry, Red Cross Emergency Relief and United Way, will determine how the funds awarded to Hancock County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service organizations in the area.

Grand larceny charged

County nabs two for tractor theft

BY SHARON K. SAUCIER

Two Hancock County men have been arrested and charged with grand larceny after allegedly stealing a tractor and leading the sheriff's department on a merry chase through the woods.

Fairley, when officers tried to serve a warrant for his arrest, ran into the woods behind the home. Officers tried to apprehend him for several hours, Hoda said.

Fairley later turned himself in to sheriff's deputies.

Bond has been set at $5,000 each on the two men.

Investigator George Burleson is in charge of the investigation and is being assisted by auxiliary deputy Mike Henley.

Qualifying organizations are urged to apply. Hancock County has distributed Emergency Food and Shelter funds previously with St. Vincent de Paul and Hancock County Food Pantry participating.

budget for gravel.

Cuevas told Kellar that there had been $90,000 in the budget for gravel.

Kellar said that there was $130,000 in the budget and asked the other supervisors how much they understood was in the budget for gravel. They agreed with him concerning the $130,000 amount.

"I asked you in the later part of July for gravel to go on some roads in my district and you said that there was no more money in the budget for it, and I kept seeing all these gravel trucks going up and down the roads. You spent $171,000 on gravel," Kellar said.

"I'm going to do something that I have never done and you can take it any way that you want to. I have not discussed this with anyone, not even my wife. I am going to recommend the termination of Sam Cuevas. My people are not getting treated right and this board doesn't mean anything," Kellar said.

Supervisor Howard Lizana agreed that he also had problems with roads being maintained in his district.

When it came to a vote, Kellar and Lizana voted in favor of the termination and Wilmer Seymour and Robert Peterson voted against.

Kellar said that all of the work is being done in three of the districts and that he understands that there is not enough money for everything to get done that needs to be done, but it should be divided equally.

He also said that he would bring the subject up again at a meeting when all of the supervisors are present.

Board president Mike Lader was absent.

QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Received a phone call from one of our readers on Wednesday asking if I would mention how our elections work in Mississippi.

He was, of course, concerned about the upcoming election in Waveland as the city now has many new registered voters.

In Mississippi we have primary elections.

This means, first there is a primary election in each party, such as Democrat and Republican.

The winners of the primary elections are then matched up along with any Independent candidates for a specific office in the general election.

Neighbors like Louisiana only have one election, Democrats, Independents and Republicans and any other party affiliates are all bundled together in one election.

I am hoping I have cleared the air for any new voters in the area.

Football action on Friday night in Bay St. Louis will be the Tigers of Bay High playing host to the Hawks of Hancock High.

It should be an action-packed game for several reasons.

First, it will be the first time Hawks head coach Rock Gaudin, former Tiger mentor, comes to town.

Second, the game will be for the county championship.

Third, this will be the first encounter for the Tigers against the Hawks with Walt Esslinger as head coach.

Bay High is fresh off a seesaw battle against St. Stanislaus, which they won in the final seconds by a field goal last week.

Sportsmanship in the Bay High-St. Stanislaus game was at its best, the way a game should be played. I would like to compliment the coaches and each and every team member for their fine sportsmanship last week.

Last week the Hawks were edged by East Central in a tough battle after Hancock made a comeback in the second half. Hancock defeated Stanislaus by seven points earlier in the season.

The game between Hancock and Bay High looks like it will be very close, and fans in the stands should get their money's worth.

The Rock-A-Chaws of St. Stanislaus will be trying to bounce back this week when they travel to Hurley to tangle with the East Central Hornets.

One good thing about Stanislaus this season is that they are capable of scoring points. They have lost several games, which could have gone their way.

Stanislaus should be ready for the Hornets, and with a few good bounces of the ball could bring a victory back home.

The Pirates of Pass Christian were in an undertow last week against Heidelberg in a non-conference tilt and could not get their offense rolling after a score.

This week the Pirates will be in a conference tilt against North Forrest and will have to be ready to play.

All of our local high school football teams need good fan support Friday night.

Give them a little help by being in the stands. I hope to see you at the game.

It takes a little effort NOT to throw our litter out the window and so much effort and expense to pick it up again.

Republican filibuster kills lobby reform bill

Thank goodness, the lobbyist-paid ski trips and golf trips to resorts and other goodies for U.S. Senators supplied by the special interests have been saved from extinction by the do-gooders with the help of our own Sen. Trent Lott.

Lott, it turns out, was one of the prime plug-pullers who killed the lobby law reform bill under a Republican pushed filibuster in the dying hours of the 103rd Congress.

Since the bill, which had initially passed the Senate last summer by a 95-4 vote (with Lott voting for it), affected the Senate rules on accepting gifts, it had to have a "super majority" (67 votes) in order to end the filibuster.

That gave Lott and his GOP cronies, who were out to sabotage any major bills backed by the Clinton administration, a lethal device to block the first real reform of the lobby law in 48 years, a move that seemed to have overwhelming support in Congress.

Common Cause President Fred Wertheimer said afterwards that the Senate maneuver scuttling the lobby reform bill, hit "a new level of hypocrisy" in American politics.

But Lott and some of his confederates, such as Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas, arrogantly boasted of having stopped the lobby campaign reform bills as well as the earlier execution of the health reform bill. Lott was quoted by the AP after the end of the widely maligned 103rd Session as congratulating the GOP leaders on blocking the bills.

"It's made a real difference, it's going to affect the elections," he told the AP, obviously indicating the political motivation behind the move.

Several days earlier in the final week Lott was quoted by Scripps-Howard News Service as saying that nobody in the country wants Congress to do a whole lot in the windup of the session, because "people in America are cynical about the government . . ."

It probably didn't occur to Lott that blocking a bill to open to public scrutiny the expenditures by lobbyists, and banning lobbyists from giving gifts to members of Congress or paying for their travel to resorts is a classic example of why the people distrust Congress.

Last year Lott and his wife were taken on a three-day expense-paid ski trip to Park City, Utah to participate in the so-called "Senators Ski Cup" put on by former Republican Sen. Jake Garn of Utah which raises money for a Utah children's hospital.

This year a TV network program, Inside Report, put a chill on the same "ski cup" when it confronted senators about accepting free skiing, meals and lodging from corporate sponsors.

The lobby reform bill would have prohibited members of Congress from accepting such gifts from lobbyists.

Lott, however, latched onto the same argument against the bill made by televangelist/politician Pat Robertson and the Christian Coalition that the bill would hurt grassroots lobbying by groups such as theirs.

Lott, the Scripps-Howard News Service reported, on Oct. 6 declared his phones "are just ringing off the hook with people calling saying 'what are you doing trying to cut off our opportunity to participate in representative government'?"

The only "ringing off the hook" apparently was coming from Robertson's well-financed pressure group forces. Robertson joined by right-wing broadcaster Rush Limbaugh, had contended that a provision in the bill would make conservative pressure groups divulge the names of their members.

This charge was categorically repudiated by Sen. Carl Levin (D-Mich.), the bill's key sponsor, who said, "The only people who have to register are paid, professional lobbyists."

Levin said that many senators who used that grassroots lobby charge as a basis of their opposition did so with a "real objective of protecting gifts" from lobbyists. Common Cause said that the reform bill had been made a victim of a "cynical disinformation campaign."

Lott has been boasting in his TV reelection commercials in Mississippi about how he spared Mississippians and the nation from having to bear the onerous burden the proposed health care reform plans, which significantly the health insurance industry opposed using some of the very same arguments.

It so happens, according to a computer analysis, by Gannett News Service, that Lott last year received $62,525 in campaign contributions from health and insurance political action committees, the largest amount by far of any member of the Mississippi Congressional delegation.

Sen. Thad Cochran, Lott's Republican colleague received zero contributions from the same source.

As Newsweek's Jonathan Alter wrote last week, the GOP's killing of the bill to crack down on lobbyists was "simple, spiteful, self-interested obstruction." It could be, he added, that the confident Republicans may have overplayed their hand.

Resident feels school board makes right move

Have you read the story in The Sea Coast Echo's Thursday, Oct. 13 issue about the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board's decision to have a student representative.

A concerned citizen made this suggestion to school board members and they took immediate action.

The school board named the Bay High Student Council's president as its student representative.

Chris Boston is the current council president, and at his first meeting, he got an idea of what it takes to run a school system.

This is a very good experience for one of our community's young people. I am sure that school board members will be listening to suggestions he may

The treats that kids consume during their annual Halloween outings may be scarier than the ghosts and goblins associated with the holiday, says a Mississippi State University nutrition specialist.

Too much candy and junk food can promote tooth decay and cause physical discomfort, says Dr. Barbara McLaurin.

How do you offer healthy, nutritious treats and keep young tick-or-treaters happy?

McLaurin offers some suggestions:

• Go fruity. Small apples make excellent treats. Check grocery stores for specials on bags of apples. Use a nontoxic marker and enlist your family in drawing pumpkin faces on oranges. Or, give individual boxes of raisins.

• Be a nut. Toasted pecans and roasted peanuts make excellent treats. Make them yourself or buy commercial products.

• Stir up your own treats. Popcorn can be packaged in small bags made with plastic wrap and tied with bright ribbons. Or, fill small bags with mixtures of unsweetened cereals, such as bite-sized wheat, corn, rice or bran cereals. You may want to add pretzels, nuts or raisins, or even a few bite-sized candies. The mix will give you a more nutritious treat than candy alone.

• Think of creative non-food treats. You may want to offer non-food items to your trick-or-treaters. Some possibilities: Give out pennies or nickels to older children. Give small items such as plastic rings, pencils or even single baseball cards.

With creativity and a little time, you'll be able to provide wholesome and satisfying treats to the young goblins who knock on your door.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

The paradigms of government

Joel Barker is an international business consultant who helps corporations understand and prepare for the future by seeing opportunity in what others see as obstacles. He helps them break away from close-minded thinking which is caused by what he calls the "paradigms of business."

In many ways, it's a fancy term for stubbornness and resistance to change.

He proposes that businesses, and individuals, are locked into specific modes of thinking by sets of normally accepted principles of the way things are, and should be. These perimeters are called paradigms.

He uses the example of the Swiss, who in the late 1960s refused to accept a simple technological change — digital time-keeping — because it did not fit their perception of the way a watch "should" work, with moving hands and turning wheels. As a result, Swiss market share of the world watch industry went from 80 percent to just 10 percent in less than a decade.

The same phenomenon exists in government. It is inconceivable to many government officials and bureaucrats that government is capable of running any differently from the way it runs today. It is beyond their thinking that private companies could run various services, such as prisons or welfare programs, instead of government.

Based on Mr. Barker's theory of the "paradigms of business," it could be said that progressive public policy has become paralyzed by the "paradigms of government."

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: NASA has determined that the Environmental Assessment for restoration of the B-1 Test Position at SSC represents an accurate and adequate analysis of the scope and level of associated environmental impacts. The EA is incorporated by reference in the FONSI.

The mission at the Stennis Space Center is to provide propulsion testing to support NASA's rocket propulsion and subsystem development, acceptance testing, and operational and programmatic restoration of the B-1 Test Position is designed to maintain the mission readiness of the Stennis Space Center. The proposed action involves restoration and modernization of the structural, mechanical, and electrical components of the test position and modifications required to bring the position into compliance with construction codes.

Alternatives to the proposed restoration action include the No Action Alternative (i.e., no modification) and construction of a new facility.

The environmental impacts identified as a result of the Environmental Assessment are short term fugitive dust, noise, and vibration resulting from blasting and recasting of the structural components of the B-1 Test Position.

The solid wastes resulting from the original prime project. Emissions resulting from this process will be contained by curtains or other enclosures to prevent a release of the wastes into the environment.

The restoration of the B-1 Test Position will result in a lead will be transported off-site to a permitted hazardous waste disposal facility.

The proposed project site is an existing facility and is not located in wetlands or floodplains. No threatened or endangered species, critical habitats, natural or cultural resources will be affected by the proposed action.

No other major or potential environmental concern have been identified. Under planned operation of the facility, no significant effects to the environment are anticipated.

Free workshops help teachers

The NASA Teacher Resource Center at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center will offer two free workshops for educators, which will enable them to become certified to use moon rocks in their own classrooms.

The two workshops, titled, "The Rocky Road to the Moon and Back," will be presented Oct. 25 and 26 by Dr. Harry B. Herzer, aerospace education specialist with NASA Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The session Oct. 25 is for teachers of grades 4-8, while the Oct. 26 session is for teachers of grades 9-12. These certification workshops will instruct teachers on the proper care of moon rocks brought back from the moon during Apollo missions. The lunar samples are available through the NASA Teacher Resource Center at Stennis.

In addition to showing the teachers the many ways these specimens can be used in their classrooms, Herzer will also compare the geology of the moon to that of Earth, as well as to the moons of other planets. Both workshops will be from 8:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. in NASA's Li'l Red Schoolhouse at Stennis. Although the workshops are offered at no charge, reservations are required due to limited seating. To make reservations, call the NASA Teacher Resource Center at (601) 688-3338.

Sea Grant/GCRL host global change video conference

Each state, Canada, Puerto Rico and several Pacific Island nationals will participate through one of seven regional satellite downlink sites.

During the three-day conference, participants will be involved in discussions, educational simulations and activity demonstrations about global change. Participants will interact with national experts through satellite downlinks in two sessions each day.

At the Biloxi site, researchers from the Gulf of Mexico and South Atlantic regions will lead additional sessions daily with a regional focus.

Nationally, the video conference is targeting informal educators such as Sea Grant advisory service specialists and Cooperative Extension agents through sponsorship of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Office of Global Change and the National Sea Grant College Program. Dr. Sharon H. Walker, marine education center administrator and Sea Grant educator, said.

Student returns from study

Anna DeMarco, a senior at the University of Mississippi from Diamondhead, recently returned from a study mission to Israel and Poland sponsored by the Anti-Defamation League of the United Nations. She was selected as one of 15 university newspaper editors nationwide to take part in the program.

DeMarco is the editor-in-chief of The Daily Mississippian, Ole Miss' student newspaper with a daily circulation of 11,000.

The trip began Aug. 18 with three days in Poland where DeMarco visited Warsaw and Krakow to learn about the holocaust. She toured the Nazi concentration camps Auschwitz and Birkenau, as well as the Warsaw and Krakow ghettos and other physical sights of the holocaust.

"Being able to touch what is left of the holocaust brings it very close to home," DeMarco said. "I'll never be able to think of it as something that is merely history."

The mission ended with an eight-day stay in Israel, where DeMarco visited Tel Aviv, Galilee, Jericho and Jerusalem to learn about the peace process. She met with PLO leaders at Yassar Arafat's headquarters in Jericho and at the Orient House in Jerusalem, which will be the equivalent of the "PLO White House" if a Palestinian state is formed.

"So often we lose a sense of the importance of the peace process in the Middle East, but it affects us very directly," DeMarco said.

DeMarco toured the Golan Heights, met with an Israeli Foreign Minister and members of each of the political parties represented in the Israeli Knesset (legislature).

She visited an Israeli army base in Samaria, spent the night at a kibbutz, climbed Masada, swam in the Dead Sea, as well as visiting many of the Christian, Muslim and Jewish holy sites.

"The trip was really an education in itself," DeMarco said. "I feel very fortunate to have been selected."

A 1991 graduate of Our Lady Academy, DeMarco is the daughter of Kay Ceriles of Diamondhead and the granddaughter of Gladys Haas of Kiln and the late Vernon R. Haas. She will graduate from the University of Mississippi in May with a BA in journalism.

TOUGH TALK

That's what you seem to hear from all the candidates for Appellate Court Judge. They talk tough because they know the public wants to hear it.

However, only one candidate has a tough track record.

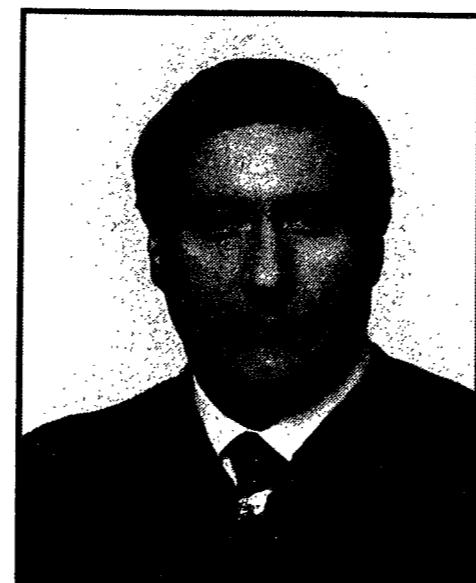

Judge James Thomas spent 8 years as Assistant District Attorney, then 12 years on the Circuit Court bench. During that time, he earned a reputation for protecting the rights of victims, sending thousands of criminals to jail. In fact, he sentenced criminals to maximum imprisonment so often that he earned the nickname "Ten Year Thomas."

Now, as Appellate Court Judge, Thomas can make sure the criminals he sentenced to jail, stay there.

"As a former prosecutor and active trial judge, I've seen criminal cases drag on for too long on appeal, only to have the criminal end up back on the streets. I ask that you elect me Judge to the Court of Appeals so I can put a stop to needless delays and ensure that the victim sees justice."

James Thomas is the only sitting judge in the race, and the only candidate endorsed by the Mississippi Prosecutors Association.

On Tuesday, Nov. 8th, Vote for Judge James Thomas, the man who delivers more than tough talk.

- 12 Years as Circuit Court Judge for Harrison, Hancock & Stone Counties
- 8 Years as Assistant District Attorney for Harrison, Hancock & Stone Counties
- Special Judge for the Mississippi Supreme Court
- Chairman of Circuit Judges Conference of Mississippi
- Graduate of Ole Miss School of Law
- B.S. in History and Political Science from U.S.M.
- Member of the American Bar Association; Harrison County Bar Association; American Judges Association; Board of Governors, Mississippi Judicial College; Judicial Performance Commission
- 44 years of age. James Thomas resides in Biloxi with his wife, Sue, daughter of Paul (deceased) and Jewel Gatewood of Collins, Mississippi. They have two daughters, Tiffany and Kelly.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. "Out of the night when the full moon is bright comes the horseman known as Turtle. This bold renegade carves a T with his blade; a T that stands for Turtle."

Man, Zorro can only carve a Z with his blade and that's no good for opening oysters.

That's right, the news this week is that the oyster season is open. All you red-blooded American men know what that means. It means yes, it's time to cut our hands opening oysters again. So the Turtle took blade in hand and promptly cut his hand opening some great-tasting oysters.

There is no truth to the story that you get extra flavor if you add your own blood to the oyster sauce.

Anyhow, if you have not had the chance to taste some of the new crop of oysters you had better get busy post haste (that means real quick) and try some of these gastronomical (25-cent word) delights.

The very first oyster will so delight your palate that your imagination will run wild with delight. Whatever that means.

Oyster lovers should be aware that the first batch of oysters is real salty-tasting, which means they are good.

Since oysters do not come in easy-open pop-top containers you might want to give some consideration to investing in some oyster opening accouterments (50-cent word). Obviously, you need an oyster knife. An oyster knife can be obtained at any oyster knife hardware store.

If you decide not to obtain an oyster knife and decide to use something like a screwdriver, you should be prepared with the following items: cotton balls, needle and thread, plus large quantities of alcohol (medicinal).

The cotton balls are for the inside of peoples' ears to screen out the #$$**&# words when you drive the screwdriver through your hand.

The needle and thread are to sew up your hand when you drive the screwdriver through your hand.

The medicinal alcohol is for sterilizing the wound externally and pain killing internally when you withdraw the screwdriver that you have driven through your hand.

Hopefully you are now convinced of the need for a real oyster knife.

The next items that you will need for your oyster opening experience are a good pair of work gloves and an oyster opening lead.

The lead looks like a big upside-down W and, as the name implies, it is made of lead. There are many different ways to place the oyster on the lead. My favorite way (because it is the hardest way to cut my hands) is to place the oyster on the lead with the "heel" up. I then place the point of my oyster knife into the crack between the two halves of the shell.

I wiggle the knife until it is snug, then I twist the handle to pop open the two halves of shell.

Once I pop the oyster open I raise one half of the shell until I can see the oyster inside. Then I slide the oyster knife along the top of the shell until I can cut the eye or cartilage from the top shell. You then flip the top shell off and repeat the cutting procedure on the bottom shell.

At this point the oyster usually disappears so rapidly that no further explanations are possible.

One final important thing to remember, always wear gloves. Murphy's Law states that if your oyster knife can slip and cut your hand it probably will.

Got some reports of some nice-size white trout being caught on the bottom using live shrimp, shiners, or pogy, in Bayou Caddy. Most of the white trout seem to be located in the holes at the end of Lambert Lane where it meets Bayou Caddy.

A few folks reported they caught some white trout and a mixed bag of specks and reds where the numerous small canals and bayous enter into Bayou Caddy.

The trout, flounders and reds seem to be going crazy in the Herron Bay area.

The good folks at LaFrance Fish Camp can direct you to the right spot.

By the way, you get to LaFrance Fish Camp by taking Lower Bay Road west. When you cross the railroad tracks, which will be about five miles after you cross Lakeshore Road, turn left at the road in the first bend.

There should be a sign where this road meets Lower Bay Road that says LaFrance Fish Camp. The camp is a few miles further down the dirt road. This is the Ansley area.

For those brave souls who have the boat to make it to the Louisiana Marsh you just gotta know everyone who has fished the Nine Mile area has flat murdered the trout. I mean limits of trout in post haste time. Like real pronto.

The fishing buddies should be aware the Louisiana green men with the flashing blue lights are in the area like fleas on a hound dog. They have a good supply of those little certificates for those folks who don't have a Louisiana fishing license.

Sumrall, Pass Christian will host those teams in the next two weeks following the contest against the Eagles.

"North Forrest will be our toughest district game," Gates commented. "They're always our toughest district opponents. We lost 3-0 to them last year."

Despite the size difference in the Heidelberg game, none of the Pirates were sidelined with injuries, Gates said. However, he added, none of the players currently out with injuries are ready to return to the field.

What will the Pirates need to do to win this week? Gates said, "The biggest thing is that we be aggressive, that we stop their offense, and that we do a good job moving the ball with our

Celebrate The Gulf Marine Education Festival

Featuring Exhibits and Demonstrations by National and Regional Organizations

Celebrate the Gulf set for Saturday

"We're counting down to the 4th Annual Celebrate the Gulf Festival at the Pass Christian Harbor. Each year the festival has grown larger and more interesting. This year's event takes place Saturday, Oct. 22 with some 30 exhibits and special events," says Sue Chamberlain, general co-chairman.

"The festival is designed to bring education, conservation and environmental awareness to the local community," says Chamberlain.

"Where else can you see so much and have the opportunity to talk to local, state and federal agencies and organizations about what they do — and it's free to the public," Chamberlain added.

There will be quite a few demonstrations and events — brought back by popular demand — and a few new ones.

A new addition will be a catamaran race and the first annual Coast City Clerk's Classic.

Some of the planned events are a fishing rodeo, a puppet show, rescue demonstrations by the Coast Guard and the Pass Christian Dive and Rescue Team, and the Naval Oceanographic Office will return with its ever-popular Remotely Operated Vehicle (ROV) and a 34-foot shallow water vessel better known as a Hydrographic Survey Launch or HSL.

All these and much more are planned for a fun-filled day at the harbor.

One of the major events will be this year's Children's Art Contest.

More than 10,000 entries from local area children — students from Harrison, Hancock and Jackson counties — are participating. Trophies, ribbons and plaques will be presented to the winners.

The festival runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with shuttle bus service to and from Pass Christian's Business District to the harbor.

The following is a list of other participating exhibitors and special events:

- * Audubon Institute
- * Coastal Environments (Artificial Oyster Reef for Creation of Fish and Shore Bird Habitat)

Principal learns from others at conference

North Bay's Kim Stasny a progressive leader

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL

"Education for All" could possibly sum up the topic of the leadership conference that principal Kim Stasny attended this summer at the Principal Center at Harvard Graduate School of Education in Boston, Mass.

She brought back to her school, North Bay Elementary, a wealth of information on curriculum designs, how to lead and how to develop long-range plans. Stasny was invited to attend, along with five others from Mississippi.

The conference, held July 12-22, consisted of workshops conducted by a quite renowned speakers," Stasny said.

One speaker was Charles Ogletree, who represented Anita Hill in her dispute with then Supreme Court judge nominee Clarence Thomas.

The principal attended lectures on various subjects. She was part of small discussion groups made up of other educators and administrative personnel from around the world. They broke into small units and sat in circles in Cambridge Square to discuss issues important to their school systems, which ranged from "rural areas of Wisconsin" to the heavily populated neighborhoods of New York City.

No matter where they came from the education leaders formed "a common bond," Stasny said. Teachers and administrators from the United States and countries such as Canada, Australia and Japan, talked about their ideas on reform and how to meet the needs of their students. They were also involved in taking a "team building course," which tests the trust of those who participate. Multi-culturalism was one of the foremost issues of discussions.

Stasny learned from her peers and shared her own experiences heading an elementary school in this fast-growing area of the Gulf Coast. She is using the information she gathered at the conference in the everyday operation of North Bay Elementary School, she said.

She praised the Bay-Waveland School System for being very supportive of its teachers. She said it was "very much an honor to be selected to go."

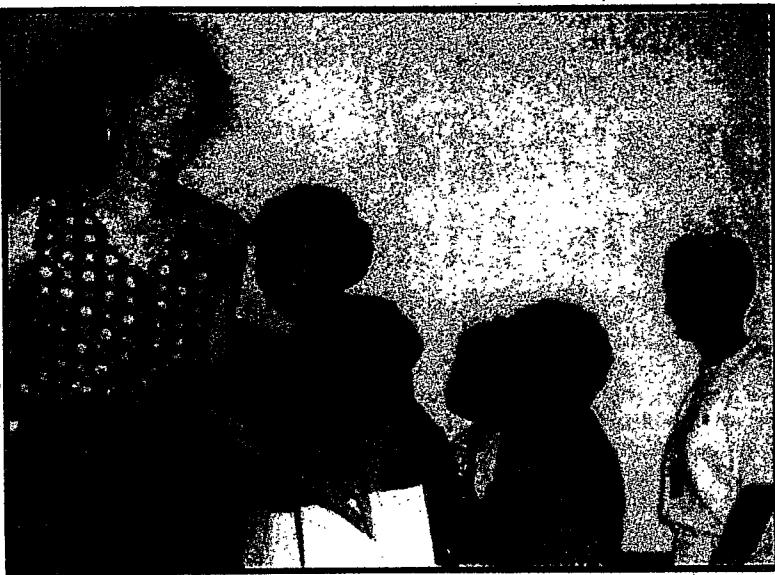

The principal is proud of Mississippi, which she has always considered to be as progressive, or as up-to-date as any system in the United States.

Stasny said participants were presented with certificates of completion during special graduation ceremonies at the end of the conference.

They did get a little time off from learning to enjoy sights in Boston. Stasny said the John F. Kennedy Museum was of great interest.

Kim Stasny (far right) was among a small group of educators chosen to represent Mississippi at the Harvard conference.

Student Advisory Council

Bay Middle School's Student Advisory Council is comprised of one representative from each classroom. The SAC Team meets with high school advisors Melissa Johnson, drug coordinator, and Kyle Spraberry, natural helper, about once a month to discuss means of drug prevention and healthy decisions. The student representatives were chosen for good behavior, effort, and self-esteem by their classmates. Pictured at a recent meeting are, bottom row from left - Emily Beck, Dena Farrell, Sheena Johnson, Stephanie Reed, Geneva Mitchell, Laura Deuschle, Lindsey Necaise, Michelle Feindell, Joseph Graves, Sarah Padula; second row - Skip Ladner, Jace Ponder, Jamon Terry, Dee Young, Biance Frederick, Alicia Lang, Felicity Ross, Chas Thoms and Tristan Egloff; third row - Kyle Spraberry, Bay High School Representative, Miguel Graves, Gene Bourgeois, Jason Oliver, Virginia Tisdale, Frank Ripp and Drug Coordinator Melissa Johnson. ## Gifted students Eight Coast Episcopal Middle School seventh graders were selected for the Duke University Talent Identification Program. They are, seated from left, Jeff Lundy, Leigh Ann Hartwell, Beau Saccoccia, Will Seemann; standing, Erin Sawardecker, Colleen May, Megan Pigott and Allyson Vaughn. Seventh graders in 16 states who scored in the top three percent in the Stanford Achievement Test, California Achievement Test, or other standard ability or aptitude tests, are chosen to participate in the program. These students will take either the SAT or ACT in January and are eligible to participate in a variety of classes and programs for gifted students.

OLA holds Big Sister/Little Sister ceremony

Seniors of Our Lady Academy welcomed the freshmen into high school at the traditional Big Sister/Little Sister ceremonies Sept. 28. They chose for their theme "Sisterly Love."

The Class of 1995 initiated the activities by providing the Class of 1998 lunch one day, at which time the 43 seniors and 49 "little sisters" got acquainted.

During the next week, the seniors "dressed up" the freshmen and paraded them around the campus. The activities ended with a prayer service in Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

The OLA Class of 1995 includes Shalon Bradley, Nicole Christenberry, Anne Courrige, Laura Dhuy, Beth Dillenkoffer, Hannah Erwin, Brandi Everett, Jennifer Frazier, Julie Ladner, Lisa Pope and Bernice Sy, all from Bay St. Louis.

Also, Lesley Babin, Nikki Chapman, Jonna Ellis, Amie Geary, Melissa Grass, Miranda Grass, Haidi Kerbl, Lorien Stahl, Jenny Thomas and Mary West, all from Waveland.

Also, Hyacinth Cappie, Jessica Clark, Amy Hoke, Amy Jones, Kim Jones, Erica Liana, Amanda McPhail, MiMi Montagnet, Jennifer Myers, Jill Peterson, Michelle Roche, Julie Ryan, Kasey Ryan, Jennifer Smith, Jennifer Trowbridge, and Donna Webb, all from Pass Christian.

And, Kara Kortman and Megan Prats, both from Diamondhead; Somer Rester from Long Beach; Rebecca Dockens from Gulfport; Jennifer Madden from Picayune and Marcie Wittman from Walker, La.

The freshmen (Class of 1998) includes Emily Alford, Ashley Artigues, Remy Bezou, Michele

William Carey receives record grant

Senator Trent Lott and Congressman Gene Taylor announced that William Carey College has received a record-setting grant under the Strengthening Institutions Program of Title III from the U.S. Department of Education. The grant for fiscal 1995 is $349,000 which is part of a five-year plan by the college totaling $1.6 million. Funding started Oct. 1.

President Jim Edwards, in a joint announcement from his office and the offices of Lott and Taylor, said, "This is the largest grant in the history of William Carey College. This support, beginning with the $349,000 authorized for the 1995 budget year, will enable Carey to initiate major steps in computerizing information systems, student advising and retention, and instructional technology using the newest computer techniques in labs and teaching by our faculty."

"The grant funds will enable us to purchase new computer hardware and software packages, which will support improved teaching and student services on our three campuses in Hattiesburg, Gulfport and New Orleans."

"We are excited by the possibilities of a grant of this magnitude and scope because it lays a foundation for teaching and technological excellence at William Carey College for the remainder of the 1990's and into the 21st century."

"Dr. Bill Payne, vice president of Institutional Effectiveness and Coast Campus, played a pivotal role in the writing of this grant," Edwards concluded.

OLA names TIP semifinalists

Five seventh grade students from Our Lady Academy have qualified to participate in the 16th annual Talent Identification Program (TIP), sponsored by Duke University.

The 1994 OLA applicants are Roxanne Fletcher, Lindsey Gamard, Lauren Hansell, Lexis Inabinet and Sarah Luster.

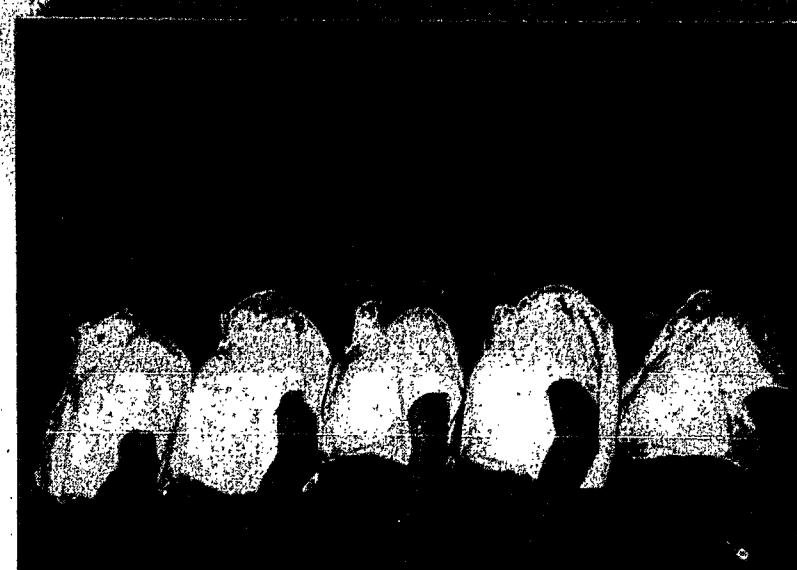

The TIP program identified the mathematically and verbally advanced students in the seventh grade from a 16-state region in the South, Southwest and Midwest.

To be eligible, students must have scored at the 97th percentile or above on the national norms of a standardized achievement test. They will sit for the SAT or ACT tests, normally taken only by college-bound juniors and seniors in December, January or February.

Many of these students score as well or better than the average college-bound seniors.

All participants receive certificates of merit, and some become eligible for statewide recognition ceremonies or a variety of educational programs.

TIP, established in 1980, has provided thousands of students with information about their abilities and educational options.

Purpose of the program is to help academically bright students develop special abilities, to assist schools in working with bright students and to understand the nature of exceptional mathematical and verbal ability.

Local students given opportunity to study abroad

Qualified high school students are offered a unique opportunity to spend an academic year or summer holiday in Scandinavia, Germany, France, Italy, Switzerland, Britain, Holland, Spain, Portugal, Brazil, Czech and Slovak Republics, Poland, Mexico, Japan, Australia, New Zealand or Canada (French or English speaking) as part of the ASSE International Student Exchange Program," announced Jodi Schmidt, southern director of ASSE.

"Until a few years ago, only a fortunate few could afford to spend a school year or summer abroad. Now, ASSE has changed all that," continued Schmidt.

Students 15 to 18 years old qualify on the basis of academic performance, character references and a genuine desire to experience life abroad with a volunteer host family.

"ASSE families abroad are carefully screened to provide a caring environment in which students can learn the language and culture of their host country," explained Schmidt.

Summer exchange students live with a family abroad who usually speaks some English.

Year students need not have learned a foreign language as they receive language and cultural instruction as part of the ASSE program. ASSE students attend regular high school classes along with their new teenage friends.

"ASSE exchange students learn by living the language and culture of their new host country," added Schmidt.

The non-profit, public benefit

ASSE International Student Exchange Program was founded by the Swedish Ministry of Education, cooperates with the Canadian Provincial Ministries of Education, and is approved by the Australian and New Zealand Department of Education.

ASSE also provides international opportunities for American families to host students from Scandinavia, Germany, France, Switzerland, Hungary, Britain, Italy, Holland, Mexico, Brazil, Spain, Portugal, Poland, the Czech and Slovak Republics, CIS (former Soviet Union), Australia, New Zealand, Canada and Japan.

Students or families interested in more information about the ASSE program should contact Cindy Obenhaus at 601/392-6807 or call 1-800-473-0696.

When asked how he has prepared himself, he commented, "I have been training twice a day, before and after work. I've been dieting so much that I am sick of chicken and turkey breast."

He continued, "I've lost about 39 pounds eating about 2100 calories per day in preparation for this competition. The one thing I'm going to do when the meet is over with is I am going to order a super large pan pizza - meatlovers with extra cheese and meat and a double serving of grease in the pan."

Good luck, Charles, and Happy Eating!!

Coast Episcopal Visits Ship Island

When teachers and parents want to take students on a class field trip, they know that considerable planning and cooperation will be needed for the trip to be a success.

Just imagine the logistics of a field trip by boat to an island for the entire student body of a school. By the time all of the sixth through 12th graders from Coast Episcopal Middle and High Schools had boarded the Gulf Islander last week to go to Ship Island, countless hours of planning by students, parents, teachers and administrators had gone into assuring a safe and successful trip.

"We wanted to do something that everyone in the middle and high schools could participate in," said Coast Episcopal Headmaster, Dr. Rodney Fisher.

"We do frequent field trips by grade or by class, but we know that this trip would be a great way to pull the entire school together."

The students each participated in one class on the island, with projects ranging from creative writing assignments for senior English classes to studying the history of the fort by seventh graders.

Sophomore algebra student Laila Hlass explained her class project: "We studied the influence of the current vegetation line as it goes from east to west. Then we had to graph the distance of the vegetation from the water from one end of the island to the other."

Math instructor Kirsten Townson noted that "the students had an opportunity to do projects that were real-life applications to their studies in math, science and history."

By midday, classes ended and students had the advantage of additional opportunities to explore, including swimming, tennis and shell collecting.

Sophomore Amanda Vaughn summed up the feelings of many when she said, "It was a great day. We all swam and played volleyball and really got to be together as an entire school."

Preparing graph

USM leadership competitions

Applications are being accepted for the seventh annual youth leadership competitions and awards ceremony at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The leadership competitions were designed to develop leadership skills and style, to build self-confidence and to allow Mississippi's young leaders to meet, develop friendships and learn from each other.

The first annual leadership competitions for Mississippi students in grades 7-12 were held in 1989 in three categories: essays, on both self-selected and designated topics; speeches, extemporaneous and prepared; and the arts, graphics and photographic.

Since the first competitions, two categories in the arts have been added: videotapes and sculpture.

The deadline for application is Jan. 15, 1995, and all students enrolled in grades 7-12 are eligible for the statewide competition. Awards will be given April 1 in all categories. The number of participants has more than tripled in the past several years with students coming from throughout the state to participate.

The competitions offer an excellent forum to develop leadership skills and style, to build self-confidence, to share new ideas, make new friends and to have fun, said Dr. Frances A. Karnes, director of the Center for Gifted Studies at USM.

For more information, call Karnes at 266-5236.

Tigers, Hawks to square off; Rocks travel to end of world to play the Hornets of East Central

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The three area teams from Hancock County will be back in action this week. The Tigers of Bay High will take on the cross-county rival Hancock Hawks and the Rocks will travel to Wade-Hurley to take on the East Central Hornets.

The Tigers will entertain the Hawks from Hancock at Joe D. McCullough Stadium this Friday at 7:30pm. The Tigers defeated cross-city rival St. Stanislaus on a last second field goal by Wali Shabazz in between the walls at Rock stadium last week. The Hawks fell to the Division 8 Class 4A leader East Central last week in Wade-Hurley by the score of 19-10.

This game will be for the bragging rights of Hancock County since both teams have defeated the Rocks this year. For the Hawks to win, they must put a stop to the lethal tag-team of Wali Shabazz and Xavier Lewis. For the Tigers to win, the defense must come through and stop the ground attack of Bradley Pernicaro and J.J. Hay. It'll be a war.

The Rocks must make that dreaded journey to the end of the world and go a few more miles to find Wade-Hurley. Once they find it, the Rocks must take on the Division 8 Class 4A undefeated leader East Central. The Hornets are 6-1 but 4-0 in the division. The Hornets combine a powerful running game with an aerial assault that will prove fits for the Rocks. The Rocks can counter with a ground assault of their own with Brandon Benoit, who averages 76 yards per game on 12 carries. The aerial attack is just as potent with Nate Middleton leading the Coast in TD passes with 10 and his favorite target being Brooks Quinlan with 5 TD receptions.

The Rocks will be tested but are primed for the upset if they can come to play.

All games are set for 7:30pm kickoffs. Good luck to your teams and see you at the game!

College Football Highlights

(For Oct. 21)

The college team in the country is having a more challenging season than Kansas State, which visits Wisconsin Saturday. It's the third of four straight huge games for the Wildcats, following match-ups with Kansas and Michigan State, ending one with Oklahoma.

Last year Kansas State managed a 16-16 tie with Colorado, holding the Buffaloes to 16 yards on the ground, but this season the Colorado offense has been nearly impossible to stop, and the Wildcats will have all they can do to keep this game close, Colorado by nine.

In the wait-till-we-get-our-hands-on-you department, one of this week's highlights is UCLA at Arizona. When the Arizona Wildcats arrived in Los Angeles last year, they had won seven straight games, were ranked No. 7 in the country and had the nation's top-rated defense.

The Bruins did nothing less than embarrass them, forcing five turnovers and jumping out to a 30-0 third-quarter lead on the way to a stunning 37-17 win. It was the highest score run up against the Arizona defense since '91. The Wildcats already have been beaten this year, but we think they'll take their frustrations out on UCLA.

And you can bet the Wisconsin Badgers can't wait to get their hands on the Minnesota Gophers. In the '93 battle for the Paul Bunyan Axe Trophy in Minneapolis, Minnesota shocked Wisconsin 28-21. The Badgers were ranked 15th in the nation at the time, and it turned out to be their only loss of the season.

This weekend, in the 104th year of their rivalry, Wisconsin's dominant offensive line will push Minnesota around, and its relentless rushing attack, led by Brent Moss and Terrell Fletcher, will run up the score. Of course, that's what we said last year.

Elsewhere in the Big Eight, Oklahoma visits Kansas in the 92nd game of the longest uninterrupted series in NCAA Division 1 competition, begun in 1902. In '93 the Sooners scored 31 points in the first half and went on to win 38-23, their eighth victory in the last nine games of this series. This year, however, things will be different. It's been quite a while since we picked Kansas over Oklahoma, but on Saturday the Jayhawks will win by three points.

Through the first six weeks of the season, we've picked 919 games right and 290 wrong (with 13 ties), a percentage of .760. We're hot.

COLLEGE FORECAST FOR Thursday, Saturday and Monday Oct. 20, 23-24

Minnesota, 27—Green Bay, 21

(Thursday) Green Bay is finally pressuring Warren Moon, the Packers' extended string of four straight losses to the Vikings with a 16-10 win on opening day. With both teams rested and both needing a win, a great game.

Atlanta, 30—*L.A. Raiders, 19

(Sunday) These two clubs haven't met since 1991, when the Falcons beat the Raiders 21-17. This could be an aerial war, because both teams prefer the passing game but neither has much of a pass defense.

Chicago, 23—*Detroit, 20

In '93 the Bears and Lions split, each beating the other on the road. This year they may swap positions in the NFC Central, and Chicago may beat Detroit twice for the first time in six years.

*Cleveland, 32—Cincinnati, 16

Sparked by huge second-quarter kick returns by Randy Baldwin and Eric Metcalf, the Browns beat the Bengals 28-20 in week one. Now that they've found their game, this one won't be as close.

Dallas, 33—*Arizona, 14

Good grief, the Cardinals must be thinking, not again. During the Cowboys' 38-3 win two weeks ago, Arizona's defense was nowhere to be seen. Dallas has now taken eight in a row from the Cards.

*Indianapolis, 17—Washington, 13

Last year Washington ended a six-game losing streak by beating the Colts 30-24. The Redskins' defense is weak against the run, so it's a safe bet they'll be seeing a lot of Marshall Faulk.

*Kansas City, 28—Seattle, 21

It's been four years since the Seahawks last beat the Chiefs. Seattle rested last week while K.C. was in Denver on Monday night, but the Chiefs, involved in a desperate Charger hunt, are hungry.

*New Orleans 20—L.A. Rams, 15

The Rams had lost seven in a row against the Saints until Jerome Bettis ran for 212 yards in N.O. last December and L.A. won 23-20. With nothing on the line, this may be the best game of the week.

*N.Y. Giants, 29—Pittsburgh, 23

If we went by offensive stats alone, the Steelers might be the pick. But the Giants, who won their last game against Pittsburgh 23-20 in '91, will do so again if they can contain Barry Foster.

*San Diego, 31—Denver, 24

In the first week of the season, the last time the Broncos looked like an AFC West contender, John Elway threw a club-record 36 completions against the Chargers in Denver but S.D. won 37-34.

*San Francisco, 27—Tampa Bay, 14

Jerry Rice caught four TD passes to lead the 49ers in a 45-21 rout of the Buccaneers in '93. T.B.'s defense may keep S.F. from making this another runaway, but the Bucs don't generate much offense.

*Philadelphia, 26—Houston, 18

(Monday) The Oilers are 0 for 5 against the Eagles, last losing to them in '91. Philadelphia is gaining strength while Houston

All-American awards football banquet set for Biloxi

The first annual All-American Football Foundation Awards Banquet will be Monday, Feb. 13, in Biloxi's Gulf Coast Coliseum honoring the 1994 All-American football team and the Golden Anniversary All-Americans of 1943 and 1944.

In addition, the new organization will recognize a group of unsung college football players, a pioneer group of All-Americans, Little All-American honorees and outstanding coaches, among others.

The families of three deceased legends, Admiral Tom Hamilton of Navy, Colonel Earl "Red" Blaik of Army, and Frank Leahy of Notre Dame, have given permission for the All-American Football Foundation to make awards in the names and memories of these three famous sports figures.

The announcement of the forming of the new organization was jointly announced by James L. "Jimmie" McDowell, the long-time executive director of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame and former Mississippi, Tennessee and New Jersey sports editor/columnist, and James B. "Jimmy" Heidel, executive director of the State of Mississippi's Department of Economic and Community Development and former Ole Miss, St. Louis Cardinals and New Orleans Saints football player.

Others attending the organizational meeting or expressing interest include Charlie Conner.
